RE-UNION

1967

What is Reunion?

"I'm coming back . . . it's been twenty years since I've been on campus . . . it will be wonderful to be in the halls of Wesleyan again, to see everybody, to visit with my classmates and all the others. . . ."

Reunion . . . is it coming back home to Alma Mater, the fostering mother in whose bosom we felt secure, free to embrace or reject new ideas, who helped mold our character, taught us and fortified us that we might cope with the world and its problems?

Is it a family affair, a reuniting of ourselves with loved ones, some of the past, some of the present?

Is it a desire to recognize and to be recognized, for what we have accomplished or hope to accomplish?

What makes us want to come back?

They say reunions start the day we enter college. Picture a young girl registering at Wesleyan — why did she choose Wesleyan, anyway? Was it because she felt that at this first college chartered to grant degrees to women she would have an educational experience different than anywhere else on earth? Seeking and finding, has she yearned through the years to relive the intellectual adventure, the discovery of herself?

Have we realized, while we were maturing, raising families, teaching, working, growing, that Wesleyan, too, has been maturing, growing? Have we kept up with her progress? Would we recognize the expanded campus, the new approaches to education? Can we see ourselves in the eager, ardent faces of today's Green or Purple Knights, Golden Hearts, or Tri-K Pirates? Can we catch their courage to bolster us in the years ahead?

Call it sentiment, call it nostalgia, call it a deep affection for The Place, and The People — faculty, administrators, but most of all, classmates. And for those years when we were young, and gay and miserable, and together — of course, I'm coming back!

FRONT COVER

Reunion is a Family Affair

REUNION, ALONG WITH Art, was a family affair this May 26-27 of 1967.

Daughters of Wesleyan, some with their own daughters, their mothers, their husbands, streamed back to Alma Mater, the nourishing mother, to embrace the college family and the Beattie family of artists — George, his mother, and his son, Drew, also his wife, Virginia, whose biography she says, could be entitled, "No Still Life."

From President Strickland's welcome to College-for-a-Day, down to the last moments of the Alumnae luncheon in the Anderson Dining Room, it was a "rip roaring success." Never had the crowd been larger, or hearts lighter, or the spirit brighter.

Townpeople, too, turned out to meet and hear the Beatties on Friday afternoon. The Recital Hall was transformed into an art gallery, with a treasure of works by the three generations, jewelry and sketches by the mother, paintings and drawings by George, all manner of creations by young Drew, including a mosaic of Jerusalem, composed of hundreds of tiny bits of paper, another of Richard the Lion-Hearted on his Crusader's Horse worked out in pastel fragments of eggshell. A popular exhibit was a table of his Reaction Reports on books he had read at Westminster School this past year, with essays and illustrations on "Catcher in the Rye", "Old Man and the Sea", and others.

"Artistic involvement sometimes develops into a deeper perception of the book, and also shows an even balance between literature and art", said Drew, aged 15.

Alumnae listened to comments, lingered over the collection, ran back next morning for another look; also they viewed the Senior Art Exhibit, in the Collier East Gallery, where were hung works by Barbara Dunn, Doris Hein, Mary Ann McFetridge, Dot Ogden, Judy Wilhelm, and Anne Zimmerman.

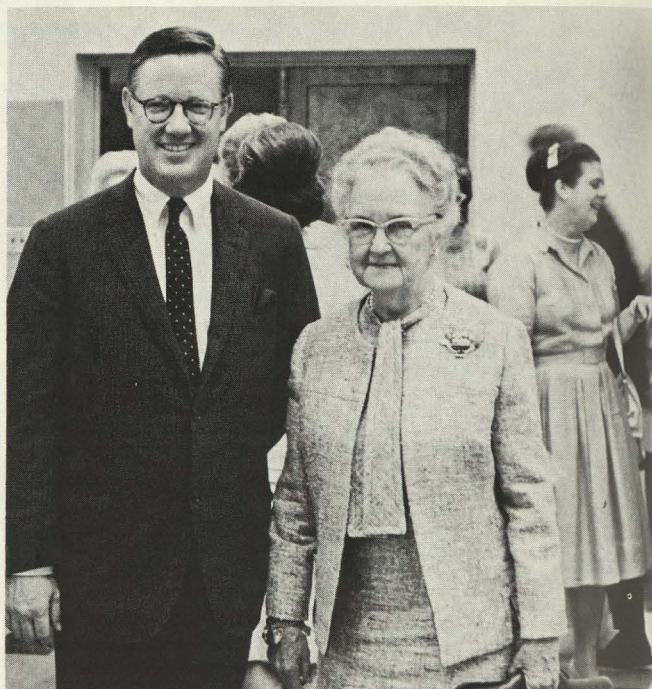

Following the same happy pattern were reunioners of the classes of '29, '30, '31, '42, '44, '45, '46, '47, '52, '53, and others who joined in the fun.

Too soon the last event, luncheon, drew to a close.

"It's almost all over", said Safford Harris, '31, Decatur, Ga. "I feel a little sad . . . guess we all do."

Mrs. B., Jr., (former Virginia Lane), with son, Drew, wears paper dress he painted. She is giving it to our Museum.

GRADUATION, TOO, IS A FAMILY AFFAIR

A flock of alumnae and other relatives saw Suelle Marie Swartz, above, graduate. Here she is with her mother, Suelle (McKellar) Swartz, '33, her brother and hooder. Also present were grandparents, Anna Belle (McCrary), '10 and Professor McKellar. Baccalaureate speaker was Dr. Willis M. Tate, president of Southern Methodist, Dallas; sermon was given by the Rev. Powers McLeod, Montgomery, Ala.

They talk...

Enriched and challenged by College-for-a-Day, they put their minds and hearts on reunion . . . on hugging and squealing and talking . . . and talking . . . and talking . . .

Lila Cabiness, '07, Macon, oldest reunioner, held court with a happy smile; she and her 60th classmates sat at the head table at luncheon.

The Golden Girls of '17 glowed all over the place, comparing children and grandchildren.

Quoting Miriam Rogers:

"The Doxology can be sung with enthusiasm, joy, hope, gratitude, and sanguine expectation because I love you" . . . and Mary (Lane) Mallett: "Blessings on all Wesleyannes, past, present and future. I have 14 grandchildren, of which three oldest girls are now in college. Our love for our Alma Mater grows and grows. Be back next year" . . . Carolyn (Kitty Cater) Jones: "I have 12 grandchildren, 6 boys and 6 girls — recipe for happiness. I love Wesleyan always" . . . and Minnie (Smith) Faber: "Words are inadequate for me to express my great joy for being spared to attend the 50th anniversary of our class. I hope that I shall be able to attend our diamond reunion" . . . and Helen Marshall: "It has been a glorious reunion of Class 1917. It doesn't seem too long since then!"

Thirty-fifth reunioners of '32 had a wonderful time, with a special project (Put-Wesleyan-in-your- Will, warmly received, reported Cora Couch Robinson, chairman) and a gala party at Malene (Lee) Morgan's, after the banquet. Charlie was a genial host (Dixie Jones Le Duc brought her husband, too), and Lois (Daniel) Brandon, unable to attend, sent mints and cookies. Virginia (Townsend) Munford told of her prospective trip to Europe, others shared their vacation plans, pulled out snapshots of family, talked . . . and talked . . . and talked.

... AND LOOK AT EXHIBITS ...

Elizabeth (Davenport) Plant, '17, is intrigued with young Drew's work. "It's wonderful being Golden, but 't ain't so grand being olden", she poetizes

(From the summer Kennedy Sinclair Newsletter:

"Weyman C. Huckabee, vice president for development at Wesleyan College, prepared a folder on bequests for the 35th anniversary class and was notified of two bequests. The folder was as creative a supplement mailing piece as we have seen in a long while."

Five in the Class of '32 have since placed Wesleyan in their Wills and five others have it under serious consideration.)

Reunion Is Coming Home Again

Four years ago Mary Stewart (Becking) Smith, AB'42, came to Wesleyan with her daughter, Karin, who was entering the Freshman Class. Along also were her mother, Augusta (Finney) Becking, AB'05, and Dad Smith, Alfred E., all of Stone Mountain, Tenn. Their picture appeared on the cover of the November, 1964 Alumnae magazine. This May, Mary Stewart, Area Representative (Chattanooga) and Class president, came back for her 25th Reunion, stayed over to see Karin, now married, graduate. Your editor asked her to write her reactions. Here are her "Ruminations of a Reunioner."

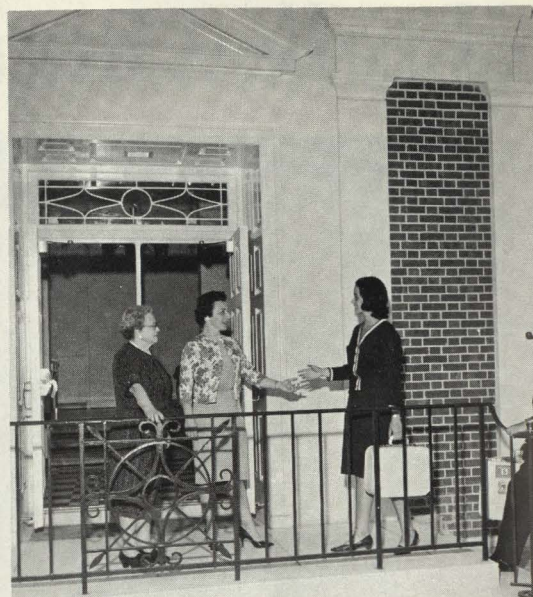

SINCE MY FORTIETH BIRTHDAY I have made it a point never to see anyone who has not seen me in over five years," confided one of my neighbors.

When she overheard me planning our Twenty-fifth Reunion, she shook her head doubtfully and began to prepare me for the traumatic experience ahead. I glanced quickly toward my reflection in the window — the extra pounds, the gray hairs, and the wrinkles were unmistakably there. But so was my feminine curiosity, as well as a host of memories of my classmates and our wonderful years at Wesleyan.

My roommate, Alice (Burrowes) Ritter, flew down from Rochester, and Martha (Woolbright) Millirons arrived from Knoxville Friday morning. Together we drove to Macon to meet the rest of the class of '42. On the way we tried to guess who would have changed the least, who had accomplished the most, who would be the first to greet us after twenty-five years. The anticipation was almost too much for me. I had to restrain myself to keep from getting a speeding ticket. However, once we had passed the Phi Mu Gates and the familiar brick and marble buildings were around us, we knew that it mattered little who was older or younger, first or last. We were home again!

In every direction there were new things to see and new faces smiling to welcome us. Two beautiful new dormitories overlooking a crystal-clear lake, a magnificent auditorium, a new infirmary, the foundation and batterboards for the long-awaited Willet Library were but a few of the changes in the landscape. And the trees were incredibly prominent on the front campus! The tremendous magnolias beside the Mt. Vernon porch had not been much taller than the graduates in 1942. Now the entire class could stand in the shadow of one!

With all the new, there were some of the old familiar things — the important ones — which have remained through the years. There were the warmth and friendliness which had made us feel at home the first time we walked across the Loggia. There were even a few familiar faces—Miss Carnes, Miss Winn, Dr. Akers, Dr. Daniel, Dr. Ginn, and dear old "Dr. Douglas," still making his nightly check-up with flashlight and cane. Here and there we saw other familiar faces too belonging to students whose mothers were in school with us and whose features and personalities were so like them that we had to pinch ourselves to be certain that we had not turned back the clock to the days when we were students.

Our schedule had been arranged carefully by the Alumnae Office so that not a precious moment was wasted, and each event was increasingly significant. The reception in the Burden Parlor and the Reunion Dinner were followed by a delightful get-together at the home of Dr. May McMillan. May was a gracious hostess in her attractive Victorian home, but realizing that she was surrounded by term papers from her Mercer students, we limited our visit to a few hours. Back at the motel, we congregated far into the morning hours.

The candlelight service has always been impressive, but to some of us who were passing the light to our graduating daughters, there was an even deeper significance. The climax of the morning was the moment when our own Jane (Mulkey) Green received the gavel from out-going President Elaine Whitehurst. By her election, the Silver Anniversary Class had been given a singular honor.

As we looked across the tables during the Alumnae Luncheon we noted classmates from widely-scattered areas with varied accomplishments and titles. From North Africa, Massachusetts, Texas, and New York they had come, as well as from Georgia and surrounding states. A doctor, a lawyer, college professors, librarians, school teachers, homemakers, and mothers were there — all with a single interest and affection, Wesleyan.

A quarter of a century had passed, but in one short weekend we had picked up our friendships exactly where we had left them the day we graduated, and had discovered that they and the college in which they had been formed had only grown dearer to us through the years.

Reunion Is Recognition

Three were honored on Alumnae Day, May 27, with citations for Distinguished Achievement which reflects honor upon Wesleyan, and three for Distinguished Service to the college.

Established in 1950, these awards are the highest alumnae honor. Nominations, with fully documented statements, may be submitted by anyone, alumnae or otherwise. Deadline for next year is December 31, 1967.

The citations were read by Helen (Farmer) Popejoy, '44, Macon.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE

CHRISTINE BROOME

AB 1916, a member of Wesleyan's faculty for 38 years, from 1924 through 1962, choosing to stay with the college when to do so meant real personal sacrifice, in the days when many faculty members have generously given of their limited salaries to help pull the college through its financial crisis. Entering Wesleyan in the Sub-Freshman class before the preparatory department was abolished, she went on to receive a Master's degree at Emory and to do summer study at the University of Chicago, Columbia, University of New Mexico; a contributor to the Kenyon and Knott "Pronouncing Dictionary of American English," so familiar to Wesleyan speech majors; some of her Spanish crossword puzzles have been published in La Prensa and Modern Language Journal. A big factor in Wesleyan's efforts to instill high standards, she taught her students to abhor mediocre work by abhorring it herself. As Henry Brooks Adams has said, "A teacher affects eternity: He can never tell where his influence stops." Christine Broome was a teacher in the fullest sense of the word, as well as the personification of a faithful daughter, both to Wesleyan and at home.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE

EMMA (DREW) CLAY

A.B., 1914, has proven herself willing to serve Wesleyan in every capacity, from the most mundane committee job to the Board of Trustees. Listed on innumerable Alumnae Day programs as the arranger of Memorial Flowers, her artistic hands have been employed untold times for other important occasions. She has created beauty at both Old Wesleyan and on the Rivoli campus, including presidential inaugurations. An active garden clubber; member of Cherokee Heights Methodist Church; dependable patron of Wesleyan cultural events. Faithfully attends Alumnae Council and Macon Club meetings; has long been a leader in the Macon Club, having served in many areas of their work, including chairman of a special committee which redecorated the Day Student's Lounge, in 1955, also chairman of birthday cakes for Wesleyan students every month for a number of years. Has graciously entertained her class after reunions, including their Golden Reunion; answers every appeal. Wife of one of Macon's outstanding business, civic, and church leaders; her loyalty and support of Wesleyan prompted her to establish the Emma Drew Clay Scholarship Fund. Deeply religious, a spirit as beautiful as the flowers with which she works.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE

MARGARET (MUNROE) THROWER

A.B. 1935, a member of a family which has been represented in the student body of Wesleyan almost continuously since the school was founded, including her four sisters, one of whom is a Trustee. Herself wife of a Trustee of the College, a prominent Atlanta attorney, Margaret has served with devotion and efficiency as President of the Atlanta Alumnae Club, as chairman of the nominating committee of the Wesleyan Alumnae Association, and in other lesser capacities, never stinting whenever and wherever she has been called. As president of her graduating class she has done an exceptional job as permanent class secretary, also as class agent, keeping in close touch with her classmates and the college. In a tradition of generous giving, she and her family are establishing the Munroe Professorship. Her winsome personality, strength of character, and devotion to Wesleyan have endeared her to the entire college family.

President Honored

At the recent meeting of the North Georgia Annual Conference Dr. Strickland was elected a delegate to the General Conference of The Methodist Church and also a delegate to the Southeastern Jurisdictional Conference.

DISTINGUISHED ACHIEVEMENT

REGINA (RAMBO) BENSON

Class of 1908, actually recipient of three degrees from Wesleyan, Bachelor of Arts, Art, and Dramatics, and a member of a sorority now known as Tri Delta. Born in Rio de Janeiro of Georgia parents, Dr. and Mrs. S. D. Rambo, since Wesleyan days she has married and become a mother and grandmother, but has taken time to serve her hometown of Marietta as it has been served by four generations of the Rambo family. The first woman to be voted Cobb County "Woman of the Year," and later voted a similar honor by the Business and Professional Women of the Marietta Y.W.C.A., she is a past president of the P.T.A., Y.W.C.A., U.D.C., D.A.R., Georgia Women's Democratic Club, Altar Guild, Marietta Theater Guild, Community Players, Creative Study Club and the Flower Garden Club; now a member of the Y.W.C.A. Board and Southern Dames of America; has served as director of choirs at the First Methodist Church of Marietta and at St. Stephens Methodist Church; has directed the Marietta Choral Guild for five years, and taught voice and dancing; recently honored by American Red Cross for fifty years of active work, teaching courses, acting as nurse's aid during the War, is now a Grey Lady; a national flower show judge, instructor at the Y.W.C.A. A member of the Cobb County Democratic committee. Was the first woman to drive a car a thousand miles on tour of Georgia, winning a trophy from the Atlanta Constitution. "Regina Rambo Benson has a charming, sparkling, vivacious personality. She shares her talents and time whenever needed. Life is a constant adventure to her." We salute Regina, the Spirit of Youth!

DISTINGUISHED ACHIEVEMENT

MINNE (SMITH) FABER

Class of 1917, although not a graduate, always a booster of Wesleyan, having served two terms as president of the Columbus, Georgia, Wesleyan Alumnae Club, and active in many areas of service to Wesleyan; a retired kindergarten teacher from the Muscogee School District, area supervisor in the Federal government Child Care Program, 1942-1946; recipient of the national "Award for Excellence" for continuing service to education (given by Kappa Delta Pi Honorary education fraternity.); charter member of Alpha Delta Kappa Honorary Teacher's Sorority, life member of the National Education Association and honorary life member of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers of Georgia, on Board of Columbus Branch of A.A.U.W.; frequent speaker on radio and TV. In 1959 took a 3-month tour of Europe visiting kindergartens and seminaries, one of four Georgia representatives to Association for Children Education, International; member of Governor's Conference on Troubled Children in 1964, and on Education in 1965; is currently serving on State Advisory Committee on children and youth representing Day Care Program. Member of Planning group of University of Georgia on training day-care personnel for state centers. Named one of 14 "Creative Women of Columbus" in 1966 by local National League of American Pen Women. Listed in 1966 "Who's Who of American Women" as educator. Through continued research, participation and service, in active and advisory capacities, she has concentrated on early childhood education, on local, state, national, and international levels.

DISTINGUISHED ACHIEVEMENT

JEWEL (DAVIS) SCARBOROUGH

A.B. '04, magna cum laude; civic and cultural leader of Abilene, Texas, graduated from Wesleyan as the youngest in her class at the age of 17; entered the University of Texas where she organized the Delta Chapter of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority; graduated from University of Texas with Bachelor of Arts degree in 1907 and in 1908 married the late Mr. Dallas Scarborough, Abilene civic leader and one of the Southwest's most successful and colorful trial lawyers; recipient of an honorary Doctor of Humane letters degree from McMurray College, Mrs. Scarborough is author of four genealogical books, considered outstanding in their field; past president of Alpha Delta Pi; organizer of the Y.W.C.A. in Abilene, the motivating influence in creating the Taylor County Tuberculosis Association in 1916 and its president for 25 years; instrumental in the organizing of the Woman's Forum, Abilene's first department club; and in the organization of the John Davis Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution, named for one of Mrs. Scarborough's ancestors; chairman of the committee which led to the creation of the Taylor County Child Welfare Board; author of the 1940 City Charter Amendment that resulted in Abilene's Park and Recreation Board; in 1918 organizer of the women of 32 West Texas counties to fight for "Votes for Women," and in 1945 a presidential elector herself, appointed secretary of the Texas Democratic Electors in 1944; organizing president of the Abilene branch of the American Association of Women in 1932; an outstanding example of the role of Wesleyan alumnae as community builders.

NEW ALUMNAE TRUSTEE

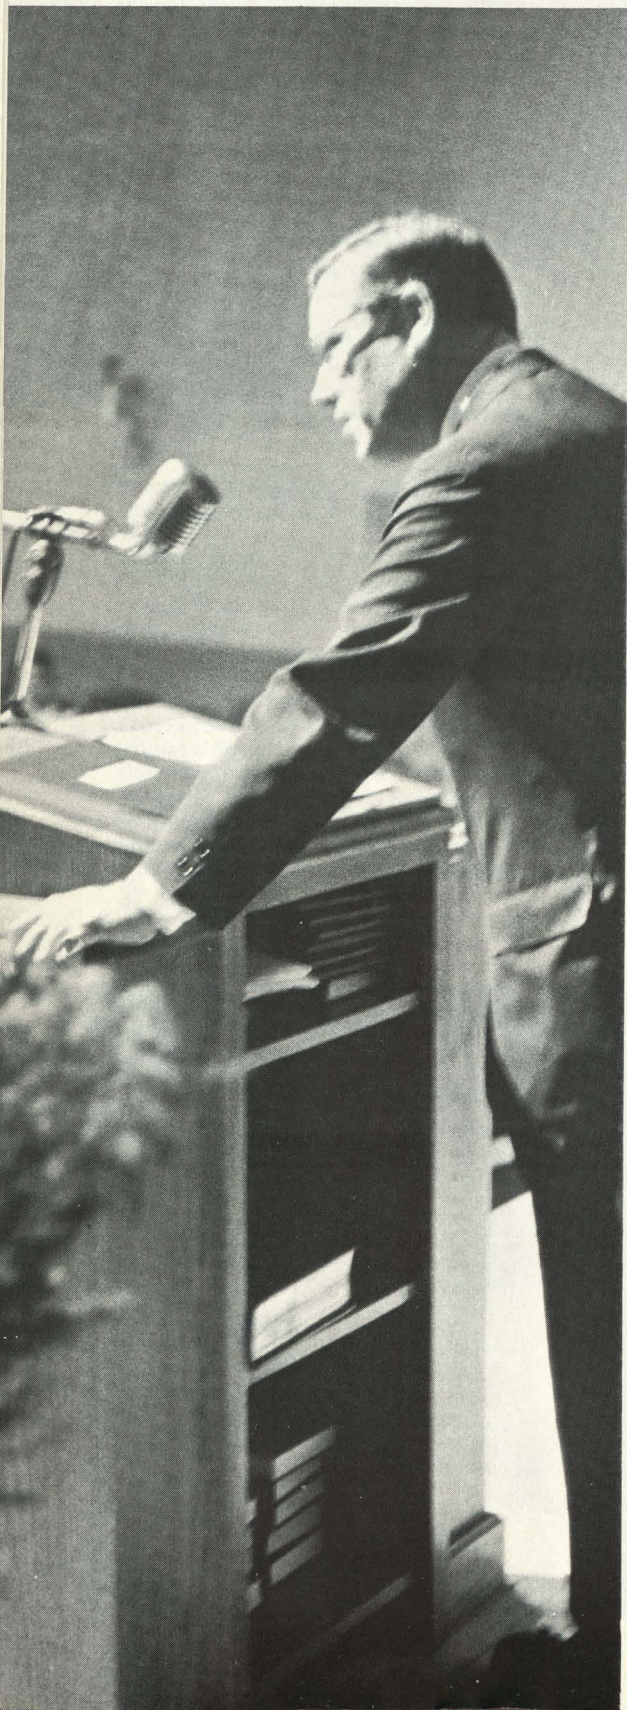

Annette (White) King, '31, elected on Alumnae Day, smiles at granddaughter Gray, 4, and her brother Fitch, clowning. New Trustee is a leader of the Women of the Church of the South Jacksonville Presbyterian Church, on State Board of Children's Home Society of Florida, director on Northeastern Division Board of Children's Home, on Board of Jacksonville Symphony Assn., Trustee of Buckner Foundation, Junior League, etc. And a worker for Wesleyan!

"Culture is activity of thought and receptiveness to beauty and human feeling . . . A merely well-informed man is the most useless bore on God's earth."

—ALFRED NORTH WHITEHEAD

BEATTIE ON "CREATIVITY"

"I believe that man is a very extraordinary part of the universe . . . that he possesses certain inherent inexhaustible capacities in his own nature which make him capable of action that can produce something that might be called beautiful, or at least be useful . . . these things are not only self-fulfilling to man, but they are an essential part of his qualification for membership in the human race . . .

"The story of man's achievements and adventures on this planet can be told in many different ways . . . often in terms of his technological advances . . . of his beliefs, ideals, convictions, and standards of value . . . less often, it is told in terms of his creative imagination as revealed in his art . . .

"The impulse to invent or represent through the medium of words or lines is natural and spontaneous . . . it manifests itself early in the childhood of an individual and early in the childhood of the race. To inhibit or frustrate it is to risk anxiety and discontent . . .

"We look back at the distant horizon of history that was Egypt . . . the pyramids . . . oldest relics of architecture . . . kings' portraits fashioned out of durable granite . . . we look at that golden moment of Greece where the greatest and most astonishing revolution in the long story of art bore its fruit . . . architects, painters, sculptors, stone masons working in that kind of perfect harmony that brought about the most perfect architecture . . . By the light of smoky lamps here were poets, historians, and philosophers setting down their words . . .

"Have we not rushed from a lamp . . . to the fluorescent light in a hundred and fifty years, yet in that same time making no such advances in other desirable directions? Is this because we have discovered our only talents to be in technology? Is it not a fact of history that the arts have always been equally essential in order that man can have a more human dwelling place? Every great culture has had not one but all the arts.

"The impact of art on the minds of men has been long in the making, even longer than science. How curious, then, that today we treat it merely as an ornament . . . a secondary extra-curricular activity . . . Whatever great good our educational system has accomplished . . . I am afraid it has left the creative state of the common man very precariously balanced . . .

"His aesthetic sensibility has already been killed at school, probably before age twelve . . . He may cultivate art as a culture . . . acquire the patter of appreciation, even the accent of understanding but he is not MOVED. He does not love; he is not changed . . . he will not alter his way of life . . . nor bring beauty out into the streets where he lives and works . . .

"If we can restore the arts to their rightful and essential place in the human realm, then, and then alone can we have any real hope for the new kind of education we so desperately need, an education of self-understanding, one that can teach us the most difficult lesson of all: to look at someone anywhere in the world, and be able to see our own image in him . . ."

The moving and meaningful discussion of "Creativity: Present Tense" by George Beattie, executive director of the Georgia Art Commission, on Alumnae Day, May 27, will be published by Wesleyan as a bulletin in February, according to President Strickland.

JENNIE (LOYALL) MANGET, class president, reports: Our 55th reunion was a mild one in comparison to our 50th in 1962. The following were present: MARTHA (HOWARD) BALKCOM, LILLIAN BATTLE, ALICE (DOMINGOS) EVANS, RUTH (VICKERS) FULWOOD, ALLEEN (POER) HINTON, LUCILE (RAY) LAWTON, JENNIE (LOYALL) MANGET, REBA (MOORE) STANDIFER.

ALICE EVANS had a house party at her home. LUCILE LAWTON and RUTH FULWOOD were her house guests, also Ruth's attractive daughter, RUTH (FULWOOD) WRIGHT, '33.

VES PARKER sent a telegram with her love and best wishes. WILMA ORR, of nearby Fort Valley, hoped to come until the last and then wrote her disappointment. RUTH (DIX) WHIGHAM, now living in Hurtsboro, Alabama, had been planning to come since Christmas but was prevented by the conflicting graduating from high school of her granddaughter. KATHLEEN GARNER'S husband was recently from the hospital and that prevented her coming. REBA STANDIFER'S Alumna daughter, MARJORIE STANDIFER, brought her from Blakely.

Our Class' contributions to Wesleyan the last few years were announced by Dr. Strickland. We hope they are outstanding and will continue to grow. They were as follows:

Two Trust Funds
amounting to	$ 75,000.00
One bequest from Ollie (Barmre) Kincaid
amounting to about	30,000.00
One endowed scholarship conceived and initiated by Kathleen (Hudson) Garner amounting to about	2,000.00
Four members have written the college that they are remembering Wesleyan in their wills.
Twenty Seven (27) members have contributed	19,213.30
Making total contributions of	$126,213.30

Since commencement we are all in shock and grieved at the sudden death on June 14th of Dr. Henry Poer, distinguished surgeon in Atlanta and ALLEEN (POER) HINTON'S younger brother and only close relative. He and his wife, the former Margaret Underwood, have always been gracious about Wesleyan and were planning an immediate presentation from them of a portrait of Alleen for the Alleen Poer Hinton Lounge at Rivoli. The entire Wesleyan family offers deepest sympathy.

The more happy event was on Sunday the 18th of June when MARTHA BALKCOM and her husband, M. C. Balkcom, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at the Howard Community Club in Macon with their children as hosts. There were two daughters, MARTHA (BALKCOM) CLARKE, '41, and SALLIE (BALKCOM) BEVARD, '46 and M. C. Balkcom, Jr., and his wife from Atlanta. ELOISE (DAVIS) CULPEPPER was with the family in the receiving line as she had been Martha's maid of honor in 1917.

Howard Community Club is practically a Wesleyan monument as the Church there is named for Martha's mother, MATTIE (BOWMAN) HOWARD, of the Wesleyan Class of 1876.

Registered at Reunion were KATHARINE P. CARNES, CORNELIA (ADAMS) HEATH, MARTHA (RILEY) HOLLIDAY, and KATHLEEN (McRAE) MURPHREE. RACHEL (LUMPKIN) WYLY, Forsyth, Ga., keeps busy writing poems and articles for Methodist publications. She is a member of the American Penwomen, Atlanta Writers Club, the Georgia Writers Assn. They wrote MARY PAULK they were sorry they could not come for Reunion:

MILDRED (BOOTH) WEST, Ft. Pierce, Fla.: "Would so enjoy seeing all the 'girls'. Bet no one has changed much, and am sure you're as pretty as ever . . . Came by Wesleyan for a quick campus drive last summer. The changes were unbelievable, but it all brought back pleasant memories . . . I am spending the best part of my life in the fourth grade (teaching)." IDA BELL (PRICE) CALLAHAN, Anniston, Ala., in Europe on vacation with her husband, Ralph.

MARY (McCORD) WALTHALL, S. Pasadena, Calif., teaching kindergarten in El Rancho Unified School District, Pico-Riviera. "I finally received my Master in Music Education at Cal State two years ago. My husband has a coin and stamp shop in Arcadia" . . . They have a daughter, Laura, married to Dr. Carter Smith, Jr., from Atlanta, now at Ft. Carson, Colo., and their Allison is 3. Bill, Lieut. JG, is a radar interceptor on Phantom jets, just returned to Viet Nam after six months there. Daughter Mary and her husband are both seniors in college.

HELEN (HALL) COURSEY, Memphis, Tenn.: "Bob and I have been blessed with good health and much happiness through the years. We still enjoy . . . the same hobbies—football, basketball, fishing, and gardening . . ."

OLIVIA (DUBBERLY) HUGHES, Glenville, Ga., chaperoned her high school senior daughter and friends to graduation festivities at Woodward Academy; son Joe III (29, "never married"!) graduates this summer from U of Georgia School of Pharmacy (Capt. in Air Force), and will enter medical school. Condolences to Olivia on the loss of her husband last July. MARY MULLIS, Roswell, N. Mex.: "I am so crippled up with arthritis . . . I have one stiff leg and walk with a cane . . . I live with my 90-year-old mother and she is wonderful for her age and a darling . . . My sister Jane lives here; her youngest boy, Joe Starkey, is one of the best sports car racers in the US. . . . Have the time of your lives!

GLADYS (MEEKS) VINDAL, Washington: "For the past year, I have been assistant librarian in charge of cataloging at George Washington U in DC. Our older son is in Korea with the Army; we haven't seen him since 1965, so look forward to his return in July. Our younger son is a freshman at NC State (Raleigh).

LOUISE (PITTMAN) PEABODY, Decatur, Ga., planned to come with Janie Layfield Pittman. "Life has been good to us, hasn't it? Our last son is in college and the house seems unusually quiet except when our four 'grans' come popping in for a happy little visit." (one is a boy)

LILLIAN (BAFFORD) TATE, Mobile, Ala., had to attend graduation of her son, Billy, from the U of Alabama. Older son Jimmy is a captain in the Army, stationed at Ft. Benning jump school. "I'm still teaching, still love it!"

LORENA THOMAS, Howey-in-the-Hills, Fla., received her master's in Latin from Columbia. She taught at public schools until 1963, and now is at private school, Howey Academy. This summer Lorena is in Europe. Her great niece, Martha Yates, will enter Wesleyan this fall.

As usual, alumnae and students formed a mutual admiration society! Margaret Swift, New York area representative, was in charge ...

FLASH . . . Anne Lee (Alley) Earnshaw visited campus recently and reported to alumnae in the Washington-Baltimore area at their meeting April 22 in McLean, Virginia. Attending were Margaret (Moody) Iwamoto, Audrey (Wise) Miller, Andrea (Morris) Gruhl, Jackie (Smith) Lineberger, Anne (Swetnam) Barton, Selma (Haubensstock) Yarmis, Barbara (Wilson) Chaite, Brenda (Withrow) Nachman, Faye (Terrell) Williams, Pont (Riley) Hall, Caroline (Hopkins) Brown, Ann Lee (Alley) Earnshaw. August 30th. is coke party for prospective students, a big success last year ...

FLASH . . . Alumnae in the Bradenton-Sarasota, Fla., area were invited to meet on April 11 at the home of Tek (Davis) Hall in Bradenton. Elaine Whitehurst took music majors Suzanne Martin, Mercedes Norris, and Dianne Dennington to play and sing for alumnae and for high school counselors invited to luncheon. Susan (Taylor) King assisted Arline (Atkins) Finch, Wesleyan representative, in arranging both meetings ...

FLASH . . . From Mobile, Ala., Winifred (Stiles) Bell reports that student prospects from Mobile are "at an all-time high". Three girls already at Wesleyan will be joined by seven freshmen, including Nancy Dill, winner of a $1000 voice scholarship (her great great grandmother, Mary (Dupont) Lines, was founding president of Phi Mu at Wesleyan in 1852; Winifred Bell, '67, has been made an honorary member of Phi Mu), and Noel Ladd, who turned down a $4000 grant to come to Wesleyan, says Mrs. Bell ... Noel was Azalea Trail Queen, Nancy a Maid ...

FLASH . . . Besides directing Wesleyan-caliber students to our Alma Mater, all Clubs are asked to: (1) urge members to return the questionnaires which were in your February Magazine, and (2) take orders for the Wesleyan Christmas card pictured on the back of your May Magazine ... Betty (Hitch) Owens, Valdosta, Ga., new second vice-president, offers her assistance to clubs and area representatives ...

Betty, '35, Heads PTA

ELIZABETH (STAYER) HENDRYSON, Denver, Colo., is the new president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. She was elected head of the 11-million member PTA at its 71st annual convention in Minneapolis in May, which prevented her returning to Wesleyan for Alumnae Week-End, as planned. Among her many honors and accomplishments, Betty was chosen woman having contributed most to education in the state of New Mexico several years ago. She recently represented Wesleyan at the Academic Festival of Colorado Woman's College.

Okay—You Asked For It!

"Why," you've asked, "doesn't our Alumnae Association sponsor a Tour of Europe like other colleges? It would be so much fun to go to Europe with other Wesleyan people and still have all the advantages of an escorted tour."

You're right, and Spring 1968 will be Tour Time! Details will come later, but here's the general idea:

- * 22 days in Europe for less than $900
- * English-speaking couriers
- * First class hotels with private baths
- * Timed to miss the peak Tourist Season

Make plans now to join us!

A Letter to You

Dear Wesleyannes,

"To contribute to the strength of our Alma Mater" — that is one of the purposes of our alumnae association as stated in the Benson Charge and in our constitution.

In thinking of ways to fulfill that pledge, I have concluded that one of the most timely and vital contributions each of us can make is to help with the admission of new students to the college, for Wesleyan is her students and therein lies her strength.

Although Wesleyan is receiving applications from far more students than she can accept, it is important that she assure the enrollment of girls who can expect a successful college career and who in turn can make some contribution to the campus life.

There are a number of things you as an alumna can do. First, seek out college-bound girls who are potential Wesleyannes. Don't wait until they are high school seniors, for by that time they will have made their choices. Your service to them will be to provide side-lights that printed brochures cannot depict.

Second, keep informed about today's Wesleyan. Visit the campus whenever possible. Attend alumnae meetings held in your area. Read the alumnae magazine. Write for information if you feel you need to. At this point a word of caution: it is important not to be misleading. If a girl is intellectually or temperamentally unsuited to Wesleyan, her years there would be unfruitful. Some girls would be as unhappy in a small girls' college as others would be on the campus of a large university virtually lost among thousands of coeds; some would be as miserable expecting a full major in some obscure foreign dialect at Wesleyan as others would be frustrated elsewhere by the lack of the superb musical training or the rich liberal arts background they could receive at Wesleyan.

Third, entertain informally in your home. If your home town is so large that you don't know many of the teen-age girls, contact the Alumnae Office or the Admissions Office. Some time during the school year it is quite likely that a representative of the college will be in your vicinity and will welcome your aid in providing a pleasant background for meeting the applicants for admission and their parents.

Fourth, give the Admissions Office names and information about possible students. Whenever you can sincerely do so, recommend students. Often the things the committee wants to know are not the things readily discernible from the student's high school transcript. Be candid and know that what you write is confidential.

Fifth, if high school counselors are among your acquaintances, use every opportunity to add to their knowledge of Wesleyan. Those of you who live outside the area can be especially helpful in this way, for what you can tell them will be far more influential than what they can read in the school catalogue or in the numerous college guides. Many students are attracted to colleges by their high school counselors.

If a girl whom you recommend is not accepted, don't be discouraged. Try again! Remember that many factors must be weighed before an acceptance can be judiciously given. Trained personnel, dedicated to giving considered judgment for the benefit of both the whole college family and the individual applicant, will of necessity make the decisions involved. You will have performed your very real and valuable service when you communicate personal information from one to the other.

Once you learn that a girl has been accepted, telephone her, drop by to see her, or write her a note. Tell her that you are pleased and urge her to make Wesleyan her final decision.

A final word to those of you who are scattered in regions where Wesleyan or Wesleyan activities are not mentioned in your daily newspaper — remember that distance is not the deterrent it once was. Many girls are seeking a college far enough away from their own homes to gain a broader experience and to experiment with a new feeling of independence. Keep in mind that Wesleyan's sphere is and has been the whole world.

"To contribute to the strength of our Alma Mater" — what a pleasure it should be to each of us alumnae to help to steer some young woman to a college experience that is as happy and rewarding as was that of most of us. Let us each make a conscious effort to do so.

To those of you who were not present for the last alumnae weekend — my personal greetings and my pledge to make every effort to fulfill the responsibility of the new position in which you have placed me.

Sincerely,
Jane (Mulkey) Green '42
President

(Inquiries should be directed to Allen Sanders, Director of Admissions at Wesleyan.)

Godspeed, Huckabees!

Weyman C. Huckabee, who has served at Wesleyan the past five years as vice president for development, will reassume his post as secretary of the Laymen's Movement and Director of Wainwright House, Rye, N. Y., on September 1, 1967. Mr. Huckabee has been called back to the position which he held for 22 years prior to his coming to Wesleyan.
